• U SEED Research Grant

U Seed Research grant is a new initiative instituted by Research Advisory Council and Research Development Cell of KAHM Unity Women's College with the support of the College Governing Body and IOAC. This new initiative is a testament of the attitude of the college since it recognizes the significance of research and development in addressing societal challenges and fostering innovation.

The primary objective is to create a platform for faculty members to develop high-value projects eligible for external funding from national and international agencies. To encourage faculty research, the college has established the Seed Money Research Project, inspired by the University's Seed Money Scheme (SMS) initiated in 2017.

The Seed Money Research Project aims to:

- Enhance faculty research capabilities for generating proposals for government and private-funded projects.
- Motivate faculty members to engage in research activities.
- Generate innovative research ideas with an interdisciplinary approach
- Develop enhanced research culture among faculty members
- Improve research output and publications.
- Create research projects addressing societal challenges.

Eligibility: Assistant and Associate Professors with a Ph.D. or MD/MS/DNB/MDS degree, having completed their probation period.

Key Features

- Faculty members can receive seed project financial support once during their tenure as Principal Investigator (PI).
- Interdisciplinary projects allow for Co-PIs.
- Maximum project duration: two years, with possible extensions.
- Grant amount: up to Rs 2 Lakh, based on proposal merit and committee decision.
- Expert guidance from Professors, Distinguished Professors, Professor Emeritus, and Visiting Professors as Mentors.
- Timely submission of utilization certificates to Dean Research and Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC).
- Periodic progress review by Dean Research, with reports to Vice Chancellor and IQAC.
- Final report submission in prescribed format after project completion.

In short Seed Money Research Project envisioned by the College fosters a research-oriented environment, encouraging faculty members to explore innovative ideas and develop high-value projects. This initiative aligns with the institution's vision to promote academic excellence, research, and community engagement
